Dear Clint:

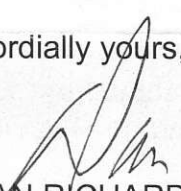

We are in receipt of the invoices for your services at the 2004 Chief Probation Officers Conference and they are being processed as I write this letter.

Over the past couple of years the Correctional Management Institute of Texas has called upon you to make presentations at the Chief Probation Officers Conference, leadership seminars, topical workshops, and the Jail Management Conference. Your presentations are relevant, timely, motivational, humorous, and instructive.

The criminal justice professionals who typically attend our training programs are not known for their ability to sit still and listen to a presenter for extended period of time; it is obvious you connected with our participants, as evidenced by the fact they listened to you for an entire day and left smiling.

The evaluations from your most recent presentation were some of the highest we have received. I hope we can use you again in the not too distant future.

Cordially yours,

DAN RICHARD BETO
